Through the Microbiomics Standards & Controls Initiative, Zymo Research is attempting to advance the field of microbi-omics and encourage the use of controls in metagenomics research, by providing free microbiome standards to first time users. Standards are available in the following categories:

- Mock microbial communities for use as positive extraction controls.
- Community DNA standards for controlling library prep and sequencing analysis.
- Spike-In Controls for assessing recovery and performing absolute quantification.
- Reference Materials to challenge analysis pipelines with true-to-life diversity.
